Bethel selectmen approve land-option package

- Offer to swap Cross St. parcel for new buildings
- But final decision will be up to town voters
- Public hearing Feb. 2; referendum vote Feb. 14

By MICHAEL DANIELS

They don't think it's a sweetheart deal, and they certainly hope it won't turn into a massacre, but the Bethel selectmen have set Feb. 14 (St. Valentine's Day) for a townwide vote on whether to sell 6.2 acres of town-owned land to developers of the proposed Cross Street commercial project.

Last Thursday, after more than five months of secret negotiations, the selectmen unanimously ratified a proposed option/sale agreement for the parcel -- which lies near the middle of the would-be development.

In essence, the deal calls for Bethel to swap the land in return for the developers relocating and rebuilding -- in newer and better form -- the town facilities currently located on the parcel (see details below).

The deal will now go to Bethel voters, who will have an opportunity to discuss the proposal at a public hearing on Feb. 2 and to vote on it at a special referendum on Valentine's Day. The selectmen opted for a referendum rather than a Town-Meeting vote in order to ensure that as many people as possible would be able to vote on the deal.

Heinie Merrill, the primary negotiator for the developers, has termed the sale of the parcel essential if the $25 million, 60-acre commercial development is to go ahead. Merrill's main partners in the deal are investor Grant Wilson and Les Otten, owner and chief executive officer of Sunday River Ski Resort in Newry.

To get the parcel, the developers have agreed to do the following:

Build the town a new public works garage. The developers would pay all costs associated with the new garage, which would be approximately the same size as the current building. The site has yet to be chosen, but the most likely candidate is the Airport Industrial Park, where the town already owns four lots it has been trying to sell since 1990. If the garage is constructed elsewhere, the town would pay the cost of acquiring the land.

Oil spilled at train site

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Approximately 150 gallons of diesel oil spilled into the snow Friday from an overfilled tank on the Sunday River/Silver Bullet Ski Express.

The train was being serviced on tracks in Bethel when the overflow occurred. The spill was quickly picked up and is expected to pose no threat to the nearby Standing Brook, according to Cheryl Bernard, an oil and hazardous materials specialist with the Maine Department of Environmental Protection.

Bernard, who inspected the site, was unable to estimate how much fuel might remain on the ground. "You can never get all of it," she said, "but as far as the DEP is concerned no follow-up is necessary. I just told them to keep an eye on the site when the weather warms up."

$1,000 reward offered for info on stolen ski gear

By WENDY HANSCOM

The Sports Outlet Ski Shop on the Sunday River Road is offering a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the thieves who recently made off with $5,000 of ski coats and other skiing gear, according to company president Bob Sullivan.

This is the second time in less than a year the store has been broken into, Sullivan said. In April $1,000 worth of Northface coats, ski goggles, sunglasses and other expensive ski accessories were stolen.

Company officials and police think both break-ins may be the work of the same burglars, Sullivan said.

"The first time they got in by cutting the phone lines, which send a message to the security company," Sullivan said. "They broke the light sensors and broke in the back door."

Sullivan said the thieves used the same approach to break in last week.

"We'd made some modifications to the system," he said, "and this time the alarm worked, but that wasn't good enough. It seems to be the same folks. They seem to be taking the risks, because the police weren't far behind them this time."

Police and Sport Outlet officials think the thieves may be local, Sullivan said.

Fire leaves three homeless

By WENDY HANSCOM

Three people were left homeless Wednesday when flames from a frying pan ignited a fire that destroyed a mobile home in Bethel's Irish Neighborhood.

Brian Kellogg, 23, tried to carry a flaming pan outside, but dropped it when it burned his hand, according to Bethel Fire Chief James Young.

The grease fire spattered and set the building on fire, Young said.

"He should have smothered the pan with anything handy," Young said, "but people don't always think of that at the time."

Kellogg and his companion Heather Roberts, 19, escaped the blaze without injury. Homeowner Carl Colby, 24, was not home at the time of the fire.

When firefighters from Bethel and Newry arrived the fire was already spreading throughout the home.

Greenwood firefighters' Cascade System for filling air tanks was also called in, and Bethel Rescue stood by at the scene. Water was obtained three miles away from a hydrant on Cross Street.

The mobile home was totally destroyed, Young said. The trailer's inside was gutted and the fire burned through the exterior walls in some places, he said.

Kellogg and Colby lost all their possessions. Roberts lost everything but a few clothes she had left at college. Kellogg and Roberts are staying with Kellogg's parents. Colby is staying with his parents.

PROWLING AROUND ON A NEW ARCTIC CAT--Danny Kennagh of Bethel was the winner of a new $4,000 Arctic Cat Jag snowmachine in a recent C.N. Brown/Marlboro cigarette promotion. Kennagh said he enjoys snowmachining but hasn't owned a sled for several years. "It was quite a Christmas present," he said. "I have never won anything before."

MUSHING IN MASHIELAND--Liz Como of Bethel puts last weekend's snowstorm to good use, taking visitors for dogsled rides along the Bethel Inn's cross country ski trails. Local nordic trails, bare until after Christmas, are now in prime shape, thanks to more than a foot of recent snow. (Photo by Michael Daniels)

Winter treats for local history buffs

Randy Bennett bringing out two more books

By WENDY HANSCOM

Local historian Randall Bennett has two new books coming out that will interest anyone who wants to know more about life before the Civil War in Bethel or the history of the Rangeley Lakes.

Bennett, who is Curator of the Bethel Historical Society, is reviving pre-Civil War history with Heritage Books' upcoming release of Dr. Nathaniel Tucker True's "History of Bethel, Maine."

True's book should be available in April and on its heels will come the Bethel Historical Society's release of "The Richardson Lakes: Jewels in the Rangeley Chain," which Bennett also edited.

Columnist turned historian

True wrote of Bethel's earlier history in the town's first newspaper, the Bethel Courier, between 1859 and 1861.

"He talked to a lot of the early settlers," Bennett said, "and published what he learned."

Bennett spent months compiling, editing and revising True's work.

All of True's columns were transferred onto microfilm in 1976.

Some of the editing work included correcting errors--typographical errors in the Courier's text or recording errors.

True chronicled information on land grants, the settlement of the Upper Androscoggin River Valley, Town Meetings and church history.

Details of historical events such as the 1781 Indian raid in Bethel might have been lost without True's accounts, Bennett said.

The historical society has also provided several illustrations for the paperback book.

The book's index includes hundreds of names of people who played a significant role in the development of the Bethel area. That information will be important to genealogists and family historians, Bennett said.

History of a summer community

Bennett is also putting the finishing touches on another book scheduled for release in the fall.

The historical society is sponsoring the publication of "The Richardson Lakes: Jewels in the Rangeley Chain," which was researched and written by society member Herbert P. Shirreffs of

They think they know Bethel

By WENDY HANSCOM

John Martin broke the tie. Bethelite Cathy Newell correctly identified the lame-duck speaker of the Maine House as a week-long University of Maine roommate of Bethel attorney Michael O'Donnell.

That bit of political trivia was enough to give Newell and Merion Brown the win Thursday in the Bethel Historical Society's 13th annual "So You Think You Know Bethel" trivia contest.

It was the Bethelites first win in three years over the Sudburies, John Brown and Jane Hosterman.

The Bethelites forced the tie-breaking question late in the game after coming from behind in the third and final period.

Did you know?

Game moderator and historical society director Stan Howe tested the panels' knowledge of Bethel and its people.

NOT ENTHUSED BY MALL

To the Editor:

I'm not enthused about the plans for the Bethel mall. How come?

1) There is some likelihood that some of the Main Street businesses will be placed at economic disadvantage. In response, it could be said--"hey, it's dog eat dog--if you don't like it, move." That's a nice thanks to hard-working folks who have helped keep Bethel stable, vital, and pleasant. Or don't those things figure into the equation?

2) Environmental impact has not been sufficiently addressed. Until regular train service becomes a reality--which of course may be never--the success of the mall will be totally dependent on an enormous increase in the volume of car traffic. What will be the impact of this, specifically, on air and water quality, given the associated increases in particulate matter discharge?

3) I assume most of the mall shops will be tourist oriented, and based on discretionary income of potential tourist-shoppers. But I thought we had enough of that already. Do we not need to expand and develop the non-service part of our economic base?

4) Intrinsic to "progress" based on discretionary income of tourist-shoppers is an increased demand for local services, e.g. sewerage, police, traffic control, etc. So, who's paying? There's a fair number of us who think our taxes are high enough. There are also more significant needs for the public dollar than controlling tourist traffic, e.g. adult education development, conservation, historical preservation, poverty relief, etc. Those not benefiting from the mall, who are numerically much greater than those few who will benefit, will be footing the bill.

5) The creation of mall-oriented jobs, presumably part of the trade-off, are essentially status jobs. They have many of the characteristics of boom-bust cycles. The reality underneath the glitz is this: true substantive economic development is delayed due to diversion of scant resources. Our manufacturing base, and ability to compete nationally, to say nothing of internationally, will continue to decline.

And how about career prospects for young people? Like what? Selling parkas made in Taiwan? We need to get serious about what is appropriate and satisfying vocational and career development for our young people. Malls do nothing in that arena.

6) Land values could rise precipitously in the surrounding area. Isn't that good? No. We've been there before. Here's a bit of the reality that occurs. Some locals will be driven out, unable to either purchase altogether, and/or unable to afford the almost predictable increase in tax valuation. Others will make a short-term killing, and take off with the new pile of loot. There's something about the quick buck which tends to bring out the worst in us.

Richard Grover's letter in this paper a couple of weeks ago, with its comments on the potential for Bethel becoming "Aspenized" is well taken. I trust the developers of the mall will ignore it.

7) The proposed mall could be done on a much smaller scale, leaving room in what is generally regarded as significant space, for other types of development. Like what? Like one to three acres for a segment of the telecommunications industry. Like an acre or two for a grant-funded nature preserve. Like an acre or two for a manufacturing concern. (Sawtooth) There's a plant doing well in Bangor--one of their model running shoes is called "the Bangor". Why not a Bethel mountain trail running shoe? The point is it makes no sense whatsoever to put all your marbles in the service economy, particularly one dependent on the whims and vagaries of shoppers with an entire state in which to spend their discretionary bucks.

I think all of these are serious concerns. But here's a concern that has the others beat by the proverbial country mile. It is unwise to allow one individual to have that much influence on the affairs of a town. It doesn't matter who it is, or how economically battered we've been--which is often a matter of perception as much as anything else.

A parking garage for some trucks. A cover for the sand pile. I hope my fellow citizens are as disappointed as I am to realize how cheaply we come.

Finally, take a drive through Freeport. It'll give you an idea of what the future could hold in store for us.

NO ONE IS BEING RAILROADED

To the Editor:

I have followed the pros and cons appearing in your Letters to the Editor column concerning the Cross Street project for quite a few weeks, and cannot help but respond to Mr. Hayes' in the Citizen of Dec. 29. It would appear from Mr. Hayes' letter that he prefers Bethel and its surroundings to forever remain a backwoods environs. Heaven forbid there be creation of more opportunities for native folk to raise their levels of income and later relocate to enjoy a bit of leisurely life on Bird Hill.

Having been raised near the foot of that hill, I truly doubt the impending growth of Bethel as a year-round tourist metropolis will seriously affect the serenity they enjoy up there on the outback. As manufacturing industries continue to move southward out of Maine, we should be willing to contend with those few petty nuisances that occur with the arrival of more abundant employment opportunities.

I say kudos to Messrs. Otten, Merrill, and Wilson for moving this region into the next century now, not tomorrow. And let's be fair about comparisons--Rutland was already thriving as a medium-sized city well before Killington blossomed.

As for the ski train staging area of their Cross Street project, it is my view from some 40-plus years as a railway historian involved with the company which formerly operated the line through Bethel, that these men have effected their priorities correctly. Safe debarkation/embarkation access and transit for those utilizing the train is the paramount factor in relationship to time and money for moving it from Point A to Point B.

Landscape cosmetology is irrelevant to those operational functions and therefore the most deferrable phase in establishing such service. One does not, after all, frost the cake while it is still baking in the oven. One will also find dirt, fuel stains and a myriad of unsightly clutter around work areas at Aspen, Vail, Sun Valley, or any other resort if their mind is set upon looking for negative images.

My wife and I find the Sunday River Ski Resort to be a very relaxing and beautiful retreat, and neither of us skis, hikes trails, rides trail bikes or snowmobiles.

TAKE IT TO THE VOTERS--Following more than five months of secret negotiations, the Bethel selectmen voted unanimously (and publicly) last week to offer developers of the proposed Cross Street commercial project a sales option on a key, 6.2 acre parcel of town-owned land. (Selectmen John Thurston, far left, abstained from the vote because he is part owner of an abutting parcel that is already optioned to the developers.) Also present for last week's vote were (facing selectmen, from left) attorney Will Gardner and developers Les Otten, Grant Wilson and Heinie Merrill. On Feb. 14 Bethel voters will render their own verdict on the deal.

Spruce Head, who died in October, 1993.

Shirreffs spent several years compiling information on hunting, fishing, sporting camps, steamboats and logging in the area.

Bennett contacted Shirreffs when he was 81 to ask how the book was progressing. With encouragement from Bennett and the historical society, Shirreffs made a renewed push to finish his manuscript, but a year later Shirreffs died before making final revisions to the book.

"We've seen a lot of people who have put in a number of years and then died before the project was complete," Bennett said.

But, working together with Shirreffs' family, the historical society decided to sponsor the editing and publication of the book.

Bennett has spent the past few months compiling Shirreffs' research and more than 250 photographs of the Richardson Lakes and the surrounding area.

"The book recalls 20 to 30 years of logging, lumbering, fishing and hunting on the Richardson Lakes," Bennett said. "After the Civil War, people had money to leave the cities and travel by train to Maine to experience the wilderness."

Many travelers came to Bethel by train and then spent the night in Bethel or Andover before heading up the lakes by steamboat to summer camps or hotels, Bennett said.

"People will want a copy of the book just for the illustrations alone," Bennett said, "some of the photos are very compelling."

Other projects in the works

Bennett is also contemplating two more books.

He plans to trace the history of a Bethel and Gilead family for publication and write the story of Maine mineral spring resorts.

Bennett, who holds a bachelor's degree in education and history, has had works published in Down East, Maine Life, New Hampshire Profiles, the New England Galaxy, the Maine Historical Society Quarterly, the Maine Seine and the Bethel Courier, among others.

Bennett's other editorial and publication projects include the publication of Thomas T. Stone's "Sketches of Oxford County," the editing and publication of an 1826 manuscript history of Rumford, "Sunday River Sketches; A New England Chronicle," "Oxford County, Maine: A Guide to Its Historic Architecture," and "An Illustrated History of Bethel, Maine."

For more information about True's history or the Rangeley Lakes books, call the society at 824-2908.

Helluva way to go

By MIKE BROWN

There is mixed joy in Maineville, for Mighty John has struck out.

After three decades of legislature service and two of those as Speaker of the Maine House (a record which will never be broken), John L. Martin was forced out of office by his own majority Democrat party.

For two days at the beginning of the Second Session last week, Martin cajoled, filibustered, pandered and finally panicked in a desperate attempt to exit gracefully from his embattled rostrum.

Martin narrowly survived an expulsion last year over his role in the infamous Ballotgate scandal. But the real reason that Martin was forced to resign (not on his own terms) is that the people were just too fed up and irritated by his arrogant leadership. And that included a hefty percentage of his own party, many of whom said that Martin just outright lied about when he would leave office. And then told lies to cover up lies and soon it all reached implausibility and people stopped believing John Martin even if he was telling the truth.

Martin's many subterfuges to serenely glide down from the Speakership with a self-sewn golden parachute included a public demeaning of Attorney General Michael Carpenter and Deputy Attorney General H. Cabanne Howard of the Opinions Division (fellow Democrats) whose opinions were that the Maine Constitution was perfectly clear. The Houses of Legislature choose their own officers and implicit by majority vote.

Martin retained a Portland attorney, Gerald Petrucci, who came up with a convoluted death row plea that the Speaker could only be removed by "address and impeachment," which involves a two-thirds House vote and Senate trial. Martin should get a retainer refund.

The tactic of Martin grasping for the two-thirds vote handle was to water down the outing fire votes. It was so judiciously bizarre that even Democrats who supported Martin considered it a ridiculous ruse.

There were two Democrat caucuses/pop rallies amid other back room and hallway clutches throughout the tumultuous two days. At the first,

Martin gave an impassioned locker room talk to go out there and win one for the speaker. Haste is paramount, he said. But the dissidents said, hold on here, not so fast, you are resigning on your terms and that sounds like driving your own ouster train to us.

The prevailing mood of the caucus was to think it over for a couple of hours. Those hours stretched into the next day. Martin's office was a turnstile of lobbyist/friends like Severin Beliveau and Martin's "soldiers" as they like to be called. Phone calls in and out of the speaker's office were continuous for two days.

One of these calls may have been from Sen. George Mitchell, U.S. Senate majority leader, who was a job finder for Martin who has been hired by the Democrat National Committee, which created a position for Martin as a flak for President Clinton's health plan. If Speaker Martin was to be thrown out of the Maine Legislature for lying, it wouldn't look too good for Mitchell, up for reelection, or Clinton's shaky health plan.

On the second day, many hours passed after session opening deadline at 2 p.m., Martin seemed to be everywhere. He even munched nervously on a noon sandwich while confronting three State House reporters in an animated hallway point and counterpoint discussion about his predicament. Quite unusual. Martin is almost never hallway ambushed by the media.

The second Democrat caucus came with a vetting of pro and con John Martin. His soldiers stood firm. His detractors were as impassioned that John Martin, their leader, was not credible, was a bald-faced liar and they insisted that Martin attend the caucus and deny to their faces what he had otherwise told them in private.

Martin did attend, accompanied by his Practorian Guard. But he came to bury himself and claim invincibility at the same time--which was vintage John L. Martin.

It was a helluva way to go. (Veteran newsmen and columnist Mike Brown writes regularly on the Augusta political scene. His views are his own and do not necessarily reflect those of The Citizen.)

THIS WEEK AT THE

Moses Mason House

A tie score resulted during the 13th annual "So You Think You Know Bethel" contest featuring the team of Cathy Newell and Merton Brown vs. John Brown and Jane Hosterman. The tie was broken by the team of Newell and Brown correctly answering one further question: "What prominent Maine politician was once the roommate of Bethel attorney Michael O'Donnell at the University of Maine?" Cathy Newell provided the correct answer: John Martin. The annual trivia contest covered the entire span of Bethel's past; this is the first time in the history of the annual contest that a tie has resulted.

During the business portion of the meeting, president Charles Raymond announced that the next meeting would be held on Feb. 3 and feature the annual historical film festival. The president presented life memberships to Avery and Mary Angevine and Keith and Suzanne Bartlett. He also presented three honorary membership to longtime members who have reached the age of 75 and have compiled an outstanding record of service to the Society. Honorary membership is the Society's highest membership award and those elected to this category are exempt from paying dues. Honored as new honorary members were Olive Anderson, Rosalind Rose Chapman, and Rodney K. Howe.

Olive Anderson of Newry has been a guide in the museum for many years; she has also served on the Special Projects Committee, contributed to the Annual Fund and is currently serving on the Board of Trustees.

Rosalind Rose Chapman has been active in the Society since its founding in 1966. A charter member, she has been a guide in the museum since it opened in 1974 and has served on a number of committees. Currently she is a longtime member of the Museum Committee and is head of the Society's Publications Committee. She has presented several programs at Society meetings, including the histories of Main, Church and Park streets. She has been a contestant on "So You Think You Know Bethel," and a trustee of the Society. In 1993, she was honored with the Noll Volunteer Service Award.

Rodney K. Howe has been active in the Society for over 20 years, helping in a variety of ways, including sawing up trees which have fallen on the property, helping with leaky toilets, thawing pipes, putting up and taking down badminton and croquet equipment at Sudbury Canada Days, and donating wood to keep the fireplaces blazing at Society meetings. His most noteworthy contribution was building with his son the stonewall between the Bethel Inn property and the Dr. Moses Mason House.

President Raymond also urged those present to order the Bethel history by Dr. Nathaniel T. True before March 1 in order to obtain the pre-publication price. This history which appeared in the pages of the "Bethel Courier" between 1859 and 1861 was published as a newspaper column each week. Dr. True collected much of this history from older residents of Bethel at the time, so as a result much of what happened in Bethel in the early days has been saved. It has been edited and consolidated for publication by Society Curator of Collections, Randall H. Bennett.

Those wishing to order should write Heritage Books, Inc., 1540 E. Pointer Ridge Pl., Suite 301, Bowie, Md., 20716. There also is a toll free number, 1-800-398-7709 to use for Visa/Master Card orders only. The price until March 1 is $18.50 plus $3 shipping. After March 1 the price will be $23.50.

The "Gift of the Month" was announced by the president as a wall hanging done by Mildred Jackson, featuring significant landmarks of Bethel, promoting the forthcoming bicentenary of the town in 1996. This was donated by Mrs. Jackson and the materials were paid for by anonymous donors. A sign "Bethel 1796" was also donated by Donald G. Bennett. Much appreciation was extended to all of the above for these donations.

Loose ends, costs to town

"We're basically happy with it," said board chairman Art Gilbert. "I don't think the town's got anything to lose on it."

Selectmen Norm Putnam agreed: "It's as good a deal as we could have hoped for. Not only is it good for the town financially, but (the project) will serve to maintain the character of the present village, while still creating a natural area for business development."

If and when

Merrill said he was "extremely pleased with the selectmen's vote, and I'm confident we can continue working together to hammer out the final details before the public hearing."

The Cross Street project is slated to include (in its initial phase) a railroad station, a 130-room hotel with conference facilities, 40,000 square feet of retail space and parking for shops and services. In addition, the present Cross Street would be substantially rerouted and a public park corridor would be created along the nearby Androscoggin River.

If voters approve the land deal, and other regulatory requirements can be met (these include review by the Bethel Planning Board), developers hope to have the railroad station, hotel and retail space ready for business during the 1994-95 ski season.

Jack Cross of Bethel, who happened to be nearby with an excavator, dug up contaminated snow and ice and loaded it onto a truck from Clean Harbors of South Portland, which hauled the waste away for disposal.

The fire department was on the scene from 3:45 p.m. to nearly midnight, according to Chief Jim Young.

"It's probably the first spill we've had around here," Young said, "but the DEP said we handled it well."

Ripley & Fletcher will continue to monitor the site, Brown said, especially when the ground begins to thaw.

He said the company would probably put a containment boom on the stream in the spring--"just to make sure we didn't miss any pockets."

Scuffle at the Red Top;
winter parking ban time again

A scuffle at the Red Top Truck Stop in Mayville led to police summoning a Massachusetts man for assault on New Year's Day. Joseph S. With 12 days past into the new year already, how many of us have consistently followed through on our New Year's Resolutions? (Mine have a tendency to fall flat.) So I guess that old adage, one day at a time, seems to work the best. After all, think health, think playful exercise daily and the rest falls into place the experts tell us. I'm going to give it the old college try. How about you? So take heart and remember—"May all your troubles last as long as your New Year's Resolutions." Hope springs eternal.

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

The old saying still holds: "The day lengthens, the cold strengthens." The new year is on its way. We have gained a few minutes from the shortest day of the year.

Now the sun has stopped going away from us and is moving up the sky again toward the zenith. The change is slight but it's there.

As I write this it's the fourth day of the new year. It is snowing outside and the wind is talking. It must have a hundred voices. There are times that it screams or bellows. Then again it whispers or sings a lullaby. But how quickly it can change. I've heard it shout down the mountainside and roar through my leafless maples or murmur through the white pines by the ledges, where the lichens make hieroglyphics. During a lonely night it whistles down the chimney and rattles the doors. Then I snuggle closer into the blankets and picture the ice and snowflakes and the deep frozen pond.

This date has a special meaning for me for I had three brothers born in this month. One was born on this date 80 years ago and my father died on this date 42 years ago.

So January and the cold has settled in on us. I realized that when I went to the mailbox this morning. But I was fortunate to have a neighbor bring my mail to me after it came.

All we can do about it is let it snow, let it snow. We have seen worse than today.

School vacation is over and some are unhappy and others happy. Some enjoyed skating where parents had shoveled the snow and tested for the thickness of ice. If I had had some skates I would have been tempted to try it.

My nephew from North Haven Island, Dale Mills, brought his two grandchildren home to Shapleigh, so came to see me, my sister Lucy in Norway, and my brother Ernest in Auburn. Several others of the family have been to see Ernest, who is now at Clover Manor.

Indexing Tax Brackets

This article is brought to you by Jane Gray, CPA

What does it mean to "index" the tax brackets and why is it important to taxpayers?

Tax bracket indexing is a way to help minimize the effect of inflation on the percentage of your income that you pay in federal income taxes. If your wages are increased this year by exactly the amount of inflation, it is desirable to have the same after-tax buying power as you had last year. The indexing of the tax brackets attempts to do this.

For example, in 1993 the 28% tax bracket for married filers was applied to taxable income of $36,001 through $89,150. For 1994 the 28% bracket will be inflation adjusted (indexed) to cover taxable income of $38,001 through $98,850. This is about a 3% inflation adjustment.

Under the new law, as was true under the old, the tax bracket thresholds will be indexed each year for inflation. However, the indexing of the thresholds for the new 36% and 39.6% brackets will not take effect until 1995.

Some taxpayers in these upper two brackets could experience "bracket creep" from 1993 into 1994. For example, a married couple in 1993 with taxable income of $140,000 pays a top rate of 31%. If they received a 1994 inflation adjustment in earnings of $4,000 bringing their taxable income up to $144,000 the $4,000 pay increase would be taxed at 36%. If indexing had applied, the 31% bracket would have been expanded so that this couple would not have ended up in the 36% bracket. The additional tax caused by the bracket creep is $200 ($4,000 x 5%).

Keep in mind that when your additional income goes into a higher tax bracket, all of your income is not subject to that higher percentage. In our example, only the $4,000 increase for this married couple is taxed at the 36% bracket.

If you need assistance with tax planning under the new law, please call us. We would be happy to assist you.

Bill and Sylvia Wight hosted a Christmas dinner on Sunday, Dec. 26, with daughter Gretchen, granddaughter Melissa and son-in-law Bill Straus, also Marlene and Steve Wight, Jan and David Wight of Old Town, and Allan Brown of Brooks. After dinner, presents were opened and a loving social time was enjoyed.

Happy Birthday to Eleanor Davis, who is 50-something, Brian Hanscom who is 30-something, and also Sis Post who is ?? "For whose returns, and many more, all these pray! and so do I."

"Special"... Not to be taken too seriously... People born in the sign of Capricorn, Dec. 22-Jan. 20, have an ambition to amount to something... Some property to take care of... Some obligation to fulfill... They drive a hard bargain, but not an unjust one. The Capricornians are forever climbing and attaining their goals. A good Capricornian is reliable, practical, prudent and patient, but can also be cold and rigid sometimes. Their birthstones are garnets and other wine-colored stones, or bright green varieties of garnets; it gives them confidence and patience. Their favorite flowers are the lilies, carnations, baby's breaths, Rose of Sharon, poinsettia, and camellia for "friendship." One famous Capricornian is Andy Rooney, Jan. 14, and Shari Lewis (Lamb Chop). Happy Birthday to all...

The Newry Recreation Committee has adult-size skis that are not currently being used by the children's ski program. They would like to make these available to members of the community. If you are interested in borrowing downhill ski equipment for the season, please contact a committee member, Gail Sysko can be reached at 824-3244.

Marci Baker at 824-2213 or Nancy Babcock at 824-2115. A donation to the Recreation Committee is requested.

On Saturday, Jan. 22, the Recreation Committee will sponsor the 2nd Annual January Night Out. If all are well, ice skating will be added to this year's event. Anyone willing to help create the ice rink at the Grange Hall should contact Marci Baker at 824-2213. The evening's activities will start at 4:30 p.m. with ice skating outside the Grange Hall. At 5:30 there will be a potluck supper inside. The committee will provide drinks and desserts. Following dinner there will be entertainment including Maine humor, music, singing and country dancing. Saturday, Feb. 5, is set as a storm date. Last year's January Night Out was well-attended and enjoyed by participants of all ages, and we hope for the same this year. Everyone is welcome. Hope to see you there.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society, wants thanks to go out to all who plan activities for the society. The Historical Society recovers bygone tales and traditions.

Esther Davis and Pat Tibbets entertained family members in a post-Christmas celebration on Jan. 2. The late party was held at Esther's home and with dinner and presents. Those attending were: the hosts, Esther and Pat, Jackie and Tim Kennagh, Jerry Shorey and Tom. They were joined later for dessert by Ethel and Erlon Twitchell, Edith Deegan and Leona Farnum.

Kellie Hart will be starting another semester at the University of Maine, Bethel Center, Jan. 19.

Ellsworth Hathaway is a patient at Stephens Memorial Hospital where he underwent surgery on Tuesday. Joyce, his wife, said he should be home later this week. Harry Hutchinson did some clearing of snow at the Hathaway residence while Ellsworth is laid up.

Andrea Wing traveled to Lewiston for her treatments for psoriasis Monday and Wednesday this week. The roads to Lewiston were quite slippery following the storm on Tuesday.

We, in South Woodstock, want to thank Percy Monk, road foreman for Woodstock, and his crew for doing such a fine job with the roads. The roads are always well plowed and sanded when needed. This is much appreciated. Thanx. Percy and Crew.

Happy New Year to everyone out there in Bethel Citizen readers' land. Now that the Christmas rush has left us I hope for good, maybe I can send in some news. There would have been news to be sure, but I didn't have time enough to push a pencil. Our daughter and her husband were here from New York during New Year's weekend, along with the rest of the family, when we had our second Christmas. So, Bill took the flu home with him. People are saying that it is difficult to shake off.

On Saturday, Jan. 15, there will be a rabies clinic at the Town Garage from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.

The West Paris Historical Society will meet Monday, Jan. 17, at 6 p.m. for an oyster stew supper followed by a meeting. The charge for the stew will be $4 per person and members may bring guests if they wish.

Basketball

Telstar 46, Dirigo 67

The Telstar High School boys' varsity basketball (1-5) team lost 46-67 Friday to Lisbon.

Todd Wing was high scorer with 14 points, followed by Caesar Morgan with 13.

Telstar 31, Dirigo 64

The Telstar High School girls' varsity basketball team lost 31-64 Thursday to Dirigo.

Beth Howe and Cheri Myers were high scorers with six points each.

Becky Chandler led in rebounding with five, followed by Laura Seames and Sarah Richardson with four each.

The Rebels (0-6) shot 35 percent from the floor, the Cougars 33 percent.

The game was decided by the defensive pressure the Cougars applied, which forced 38 Rebel turnovers, according to coach Ray Seames.

"This was the Rebels' best performance of the season against a team that has only lost to Mountain Valley Conference leaders Madison and Mt. Abram in close decisions," Seames said. "I was very pleased with their performance."

Telstar 56, Dirigo 39

The Telstar High School boys' varsity basketball got its first Mountain Valley Conference win of the season Wednesday. The Rebels beat Dirigo 56-39.

Caesar Morgan was high scorer with 15 points, followed by Todd Wing with 11.

Telstar 38, Livermore 67

The Telstar High School girls' varsity team lost 38-67, Dec. 29, to Livermore Falls.

The Rebels scored the most game points in two years, according to coach Ray Seames. The previous game high was 34 points, Seames said.

Beth Howe was high scorer with nine points, followed by Sarah Richardson with eight, and M.J. Learned, Cheri Myers and Jill Olson with six each.

Myers led in rebounding with six. Learned logged four steals and Richardson five assists.

The Rebels had 13 steals and created 23 turnovers for the Andies, while giving up the ball 23 times on turnovers.

"The game was decided under the boards where the Andies out rebounded and outscored the Rebels," Seames said. "Cheri Myers and Laura Seames had excellent defensive games, holding the Andies' two leading scorers to a total of 11 points."

JV: Telstar 52, Lisbon 49

The Telstar High School J.V. boys' basketball team beat Lisbon Friday 52-49 for the team's first win of the season.

Tony Buker was high scorer with 18 points. Heath Poland sank 10 points.

JV: Telstar 32, Dirigo 58

The Telstar High School girls' J.V. basketball (0-7) team lost 32-58 Thursday to Dirigo.

Beth Howe was high scorer for the sixth game in a row, with 13 points against the Cougars.

Jessica Pike logged seven rebounds.

The J.V. Rebels stayed within six points of the lead in the first half, but couldn't hit the basket, according to coach Jim Mielon, even though they shot 52 times from the floor during the game.

"The team is still working together, and making much improvement each game," Mielon said. "We have not had the higher score at the end of each game (this season), but this team is working hard together, and they have not lost devotion or team dignity."

JV: Telstar 42, Dirigo 51

The Telstar High School J.V. boys' basketball team lost 42-51 Wednesday to Dirigo.

Jason Berry was high scorer with 12 points.

JV: TMS 24, Tripp 31

The Telstar Middle School J.V. team outscored Tripp 14-10 in the first half of Wednesday's game, but lost 24-31.

Jen Walker was high scorer with 10 points, followed by Mandy Berry with four. Sinking two points each were Brandy Poland, Christy Richardson, Staci Littlehale, Heather Best and Jenny Evans.

FIRST CONFERENCE WIN OF THE SEASON--Telstar High School's Todd Wing goes up for two points in Wednesday's game against Dirigo. Telstar (1-5) beat Mountain Valley Conference rivals Dirigo 56-39. Wing scored 11 points, while Telstar's Caesar Morgan was high scorer with 15 points.

Skiing

Telstar 18, Oxford Hills 18

The Telstar High School alpine ski team won Saturday's giant slalom race against Oxford Hills at Sunday River Ski Resort.

Parker Gray skied to a second place finish, followed by Kevin Rosenberg in third, Josh Adams in sixth and Nat Harvey in seventh for a total of 18 points.

Oxford Hills skiers took first, fourth, fifth and eighth, also scoring 18 points.

To break the tie, team scores were extended to a fifth man. Telstar's fifth finisher Jason Fogge placed ninth, higher than Oxford Hills fifth man in twelfth, so Telstar was awarded the win.

"All Telstar skiers skied very strong," coach Tom Remington said. "Freshman Parker Gray narrowly missed winning the race when he fell at the end of the course."

News from the

The Bethel Library

The Bethel Library has received a generous donation from Stephen and Tabitha King to be used for the purchase of a computer. The system will be IBM-compatible with two internal CD-Roms, 3 1/2" disk drive, color monitor and printer. The computer will enable library patrons to use CD reference materials and to access MaineCat, a listing of the holdings of 230 libraries in the state of Maine, for inter-library loan purposes. It is anticipated that the computer will be installed during the month of January.

A Birthday Book was purchased by Bernice Caddigan in honor of son Sean's sixth birthday, Jan. 8. The book is "On the Day you were Born," by Debra Frasier. Barbara and Richard James also donated a book in honor of Jim and Pat Hudson, entitled "Creatures of the Kingdom: Stories of animals and nature," by James Michener.

The new videos for January from the "Check it out!" classic and foreign video collection are: "Time of the Gypsies," "The Painted Veil," "The Importance of Being Earnest," "Pickup On South Street," "Little World of Don Camillo," "Inherit the Wind," "The Butcher cuts him Down," "Murderers Among Us," "Dona Flor and her Two Husbands," and "Corduroy/Blueberries for Sal." Please remember that this service costs the Bethel Library $20 per month, and a donation of a dollar is appreciated when these videos are checked out.

Jackson-Silver Post #68

Members of the Jackson-Silver Post 68 American Legion met for its first business meeting of the year last Thursday at their hall on the Gore Road, Locke Mills.

The meeting opened with the usual preliminaries followed by reports from officers and various committees.

One report was given by Herbert Lyon, chairman of the new By-Laws Committee. He indicated that the committee will make its first report on Jan. 13 at 7 p.m. and the final report on Sunday, Jan. 23 at 7 p.m. All members are strongly urged to attend both these meetings.

Relating to the by-laws, it is the matter of "speak now or forever hold your peace."

Commander Tyler brought a report on a meeting with Dianne Hall, representative from the IRS, explaining the federal requirements if someone is hired by the Post at more than $600 per year. Members voted to have the Post finance officer, Richard Cross, meet with this representative to fill all necessary papers to comply with governmental requirements.

The finance officer further reported that all bills to date were paid and that the Post finances were in good condition.

Under correspondence a number of cards and letters were read, including a wedding invitation from Ray Tripp for his upcoming wedding on Feb. 14. Several thank you's were read, including one from

V.F.W. MEETING

Bethel Memorial V.F.W. Post 11363 will meet Jan. 13 at the Methodist Church, with supper at 6 p.m. Guest speaker will be Robert Ripley, U.S. Forest Service.

"Kathy" Bartlett, who recently lost two near relatives in her family. Further expressions of appreciation were received from George Batchelder and the management of Ledgeview Nursing Home of West Paris for the Christmas party given to the veterans residing at the home.

Under old business, discussion was given to the planned renovation of the men's and women's toilets. The plans are to enlarge the two facilities and make them accessible to the handicapped.

Under new business, quite a few donations were voted upon, some that are given on a regular yearly basis. Members present voted to make the size of donations the same as last year, which was $25. It was voted to give a $200 donation to Brian Kellogg and Earl Colby, whose mobile home was destroyed by fire last week in the Irish Neighborhood, Bethel. It was further voted to instruct the Post service officer to make a standard donation of $200 to all victims of fire in the neighborhood, in keeping with a past custom of the Post.

A motion was made and carried that the Post would limit its meetings to one per month. The next meeting, Feb. 4, will be an oyster stew supper. Members and families are invited.

At this point the meeting was adjourned with the chaplain's prayer and retiring of the Colors by the Sgt. at arms.

TASK FORCE NOTES

January meeting of the Bethel Area Task Force is scheduled for Sunday, Jan. 16, at 7 p.m. at the Bingham House on Broad Street.

CRESCENT PARK SCHOOL PURCHASES EDUQUEST SYSTEM-
Crescent Park School student Amanda McGrew works at an IBM computer in her fifth-grade classroom. Last year, IBM chose CPS as a pilot school for the Eduquest system, which features multimedia software and programs in computer use, math, reading and writing. Some students, for example, are writing, illustrating and publishing books. The computer programs let teachers tailor lessons for each student. Using the computers to help teach some subjects frees teachers up to spend more one-on-one time with students, according to CPS Principal David Murphy. The school recently purchased the 22 student computers, four teachers' computer stations and associated hardware that IBM Corporation supplied for the pilot program, Murphy said. During the pilot program, IBM also provided roughly $40,000 in software, maintenance and teacher training. Four CPS classrooms have been using the equipment since October. Murphy said the program was so well received by students and teachers that the district will probably purchase several more of the computers to outfit the new CPS addition. The district has approximately $400,000 to purchase movable equipment for the new addition. Murphy said. That equipment could include computers, desks, audio/video equipment and other furniture.

Mahoosuc Arts notes:

The Mahoosuc Arts Council's programming for the new year begins this week with presentations for the district's schools by Northeast Historic Films and piano player, Danny Patt.

On Thursday, Jan. 13, elementary students from the Andover, Crescent Park and Woodstock schools will experience a return to the nostalgic days of the silent film era. They will view a screening of Laurel and Hardy's "Big Business." "Big Business" was made in 1929 and features the comic antics of Laurel and Hardy as they try to sell Christmas trees in sunny California.

On Friday Telstar middle and high school students will see Charlie Chaplin's comedy short "The Punk" and a Pathe Newsreel covering scenes from the decade and a half following the nation's entry into World War I.

Danny Patt will be accompanying the silent films on piano, something he's been doing since he was 12 years old in theaters around his hometown of Union.

Danny Patt's appearance and the films from the archives of Northeast Historic Films are presented with the support of the Maine Arts Commission.

Also in January, the Mahoosuc Arts Council will host the Maine Music Society's Maine Chamber Ensemble in concert. The concert on Saturday, Jan. 22 at 7:30 p.m. will be held in Bingham Auditorium at Gould Academy.

The full length program of classical music will feature selections by Mozart, Bruch and Brahms. The concert will be followed by a reception with the artists in Gehring Dining Hall. The snow date for the concert is Jan. 24, same time and location.

Tickets prices are $6 adults, $4 students in advance and $8 adults, $6 students at the door and include admission to the reception. All proceeds will benefit the Maine Music Society. Tickets are available at Preb's Pharmacy or by calling 824-3575 for ticket reservations.

ELSIE PEARL HEWEY

Elsie Pearl (Flint) Hewey, 87, died on Sunday, Jan. 2, 1994, at Regency of Tacoma, Wash., where she had been a resident for two months.

She was born in Newry on Nov. 11, 1906, the daughter of Maenette B. (Littlehale) and F. Perley Flint.

She was educated at a one room school in Newry, and attended Gould Academy for her high school years, graduating in 1924. She later attended both Grays Business School and Beauty Culture Schools in Portland.

She was married to Theodore H. Hewey on July 16, 1928 and was widowed on May 17, 1973.

Growing up she spent winters in Newry and Bethel and summers at Bosebuck Camps, which her parents owned and operated on Aziscoos Lake, where she met and married her husband and had two daughters.

In 1936 they moved to Wilsons Mills so that the girls could attend school. They moved again in 1942 to Cape Elizabeth, where they lived for 28 years.

She was a member of Eastern Star for several years.

After her husband's death in 1973 she spent her winters in Florida and the summers visiting her daughters, Polly Ann in Andover and later Spanaway, Wash., and Jo Ann in Broomfield, Colo.

She is survived by her sister, Marguerite Quinn of Norway; her daughter, Polly Ann and son-in-law, Richard Johnston of Spanaway, Wash.; her daughter Jo Ann and son-in-law, Wilbur Berry of Broomfield, Colo.; seven grandchildren; 19 great-grandchildren; and one great-great-grandson.

Memorial services will be held at a later date at the Congregational Church in Andover and interment will be at Woodlawn Cemetery in Andover.

Those who desire may contribute in her memory to the Andover Congregational Church.

Thornton Jr. of Lewiston, and Rick Thornton of Rumford; two brothers, Archie Damon of Florida, and Edgar Damon of Norway; three half sisters, Jesse Damon of Norway, Patricia Lee of North Carolina and Trudy Thomelson of Michigan; and four grandchildren.

In Loving Memory of R. Glenn Murphy

In memory of a man that we all loved who's been called home to the heavens above. He gave so much to those he held dear And in our hearts He'll always be near.

Dad, we all love you and that will never change We know you're with God roaming his range.

No need for sadness No need for sorrow God holds the keys For today and tomorrow. If we walk in God's light and follow his way That's a guarantee We'll see you someday.
